About Viksit Bharat @2047

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Sunday chaired the council of ministers meeting, chalking out a plan for the next five years to work on the 'Viksit Bharat 2047'. The Viksit Bharat vision has been the prime focus of PM Modi's speeches over the last few years. The prime minister has expressed his government's action plan to turn India into a developed nation by 2047, exactly 100 years after gaining Independence from the British rule. The roadmap of Viksit Bharat 2047 for the next five years was discussed by Modi on Sunday, which included a carefully articulate list of national goals, aims and action points. The focus of Viksit Bharat vision lies in economic growth, sustainable development goals, ease of living, ease of doing business, infrastructure, and social welfare, and more.

Modi has previously said the aim of Viksit Bharat vision is to enable every citizen to participate in the economy. One of the most significant parts of this action plan is to turn India into the third-largest economy in the world over the next five years, if the NDA comes into power once again.
